The wedding is one of the greatest interest to society here and throughout the State, owing to the social prominence of both Mr. Werth and his bride-to-be. Mr. Werth is a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Werth, of the Chesterfield, and a member of Richmond people will attend the ceremony.

There will be a members' meeting at the Art Club of Richmond this afternoon at 5 o'clock, when Samuel W. Neek will make a short address. All members are urged to be present, and express their views upon the aims and work of the club, as well as any non-members who are interested in following the business session. An informal reception will be held. This affair closes the season at the Art Club for the summer, and will be the occasion for a large attendance of club members. A great deal of interest is being shown in the excellent students' exhibition now being held at the club, and all interested are cordially invited to come and view the work, which will be on exhibition during this week.

Reversible auto hats are interesting, for both the "inside" and "outside" hats are artistic. One hat is of soft straw braid with trimming of grosgrain ribbon, all sorts and flexible, and, when turned inside out it becomes a very attractive silk hat.

Another auto hat of the reversible type is even more practical, for when it is turned inside out it is transformed into a rainy-weather hat of waterproof silk.

In the wake of the tango comes the crocheted tango and mixture necklaces. You can make them or buy them ready made. The tango necklaces and large "heads" are made over molds, as are some of the buckle effects and oval designs. Colors are used on these and mixed in harmonious profusion, most of the medallions being made to imitate gem-set ornaments. In the arrangement of the stitches.

A crocheted vanity pad has the pocket for powder in its interior so that the powder sifts through easily upon slight pressure. Powder, flesh-colored and white, comes in envelopes in quantities sufficient to fill the vanity.

Breakfast sets of black china are not particularly pleasing, although effort has been made to have them conform with the present black and white style of decoration. Thus far they consist of merely the cream pitcher, sugar bowl, chocolate pot and porridge bowls.

Beautiful Silks. There is a wonderful variety of flowered, striped and figured silks, the patterns of which duplicate the material in the frocks worn by women of the quaint eighteenth century.

DEMONSTRATES COOKING METHODS

MRS. FLORENCE AUSTIN CHASE SHOWING RICHMOND HOUSEKEEPERS HOW TO MAKE SALAD.

COOKING SCHOOL OPENS WITH BIG ATTENDANCE

Mrs. Florence Austin Chase Gives First Demonstration on Soups and Salads.

MEATS TOPIC OF TO-DAY'S WORK

Classes Are Open to All Housekeepers. With No Charge for Attendance. To Continue Through Week.

In the presence of a large and enthusiastic audience Mrs. Florence Austin Chase gave the first of a series of free cooking demonstrations in The Times-Dispatch Booth at the Manufacturers' Exhibit, corner of Sixth and Main Streets, yesterday afternoon. The demonstrations will be continued each afternoon this week from 2 to 5 o'clock, and all interested in the best methods of preparing meals are invited to attend. There is no admission fee, no collection, and nothing sold.

PRACTICAL TALKS

ON SYSTEM IN COOKING Mrs. Chase's first lecture was a very full and complete one, and everything that she teaches is practical and easy to learn. In her talk yesterday great emphasis was laid on the use of system in cooking. With correct measure and good materials there is not the slightest excuse for a failure of any kind; in fact, Mrs. Chase does not seem to possess the word "failure" in her vocabulary, if one is to judge by the appetizing soups and salads and the delicious biscuits which she demonstrated yesterday afternoon. Her preparations are simple, every-day dishes that one can go home at supper time and prepare with all ease from her recipes, and she worked them all out with a precision and art that is really enchanting. In making two steaming soups for the menu yesterday she used the Monogram Brand canned goods and milk and butter and cream from the Richmond Dairy Company. In a trim white frock and apron with capable, competent hands, Mrs. Chase works before a kitchen cabinet and sanitary table furnished by Snyder & Hundley, and the pretty little biscuit and the Virginia Dare coffee are cooked to a turn on a Tip-top Standard gas range. The biscuits were made with Good Luck Baking Powder and out of the Superlative brand of Dunlop flour, and there is Broad Rock water and Crystal ginger ale for the refreshment of the audience in attendance.

Mrs. Chase stated that women all over the country are coming to realize the necessity of home training, since every normal girl expects some day to have a home of her own, and domestic culture means the awakening of women everywhere. They must know what is needed for human bodies and study the chemistry and combinations of food, in order that good, healthy dinners and luncheons may be prepared and arranged for one's family. Every dinner should include a vegetable salad of some kind, served with a French dressing. Beautiful, simple and wholesome salads were demonstrated yesterday to show housekeepers new ways of arranging old dishes, and a fine boiled dressing was made as a substitute for mayonnaise. Coffee and biscuits concluded the instructive program for the afternoon, and all present were deeply interested.

Everybody came yesterday afternoon, and everybody wrote something down on their pads to go home and try on their husbands and brothers, and everything that was taught them was a practical, wholesome recipe that they could all use. These demonstrations are entirely free under the auspices of The Times-Dispatch, and will be continued each afternoon this week. The charm of the whole affair is the informality of the atmosphere and the interested discussions that arise between the demonstrators and other "cooks" present. The program for this afternoon is meat and vegetables. The auditorium of the fourth floor of the Chamber of Commerce Building will seat between 400 and 500 people, and all the homemakers and housekeepers in the city are invited to come and hear Mrs. Chase lecture, and witness the latest and most approved methods used by her in this cooking class.
